Dear Mr. Lough

This is an appeal for the Power lines back of my house be placed underground. I moved into this house in the fall of 1971 and for 33 years I have suffered from power outages because the huge trees fall across the power lines and knock the transformers, poles and wires to the jungle that runs between my street and Clovelly Lane. Last September I was without electricity for 14 days. Every year for 33 years the lines have been forced to the ground. Furthermore there is no roadway alley for the workmen. They use my drive way and hand carry the poles, transformers, wiring and fittings some 200 feet down to the easements.

When the utilities go underground I suggest a backhoe clear an alley from the water works up to Sugrave. The alley should have been made before the poles were ever hung.

Yours truly

Paul H Fox
